DETAILED ACTION

This Office Action is in response to the amendment filed March 26, 2009 for the above identified patent application.

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 3-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kanayama et al. (USPUB 2003/0111511).

Kanayama et al. discloses a sliding bearing comprising a bearing alloy layer (6) and an overlay layer (1) comprising a solid lubricant and a resin (section 0027) provided on the bearing alloy layer, the bearing alloy layer having a flat surface with a fine roughness (section 0024) in contact with the overlay layer and the overlay layer having a regular uneven configuration comprising spiral grooves (section 0020, lines 9-10, Figure 1b) and adjacent spiral annular projections (Figure 1B) formed along a circumferential direction of the sliding bearing, the grooves having the same shape and depth and the annular projections having the same shape and height so that the configuration of the overlay layer at each annular projection is uniform.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Alternatively, claims 3-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kanayama et al. (USPUB 2003/0111511) in view of Payne (USP 1,731,790).

In the event applicant amends the claims to better define the device, see the following rejection.

Kanayama et al. does not illustrate the bearing as a radial bearing having a plurality of spiral grooves. The prior art to Payne discloses a radial bearing having a plurality of spiral grooves. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to configure the bearing of Kanayama et al. as a radial bearing having a plurality of grooves, as taught by Payne, motivation being support a rotating component with a bearing having reduced friction and wear.

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP

Art Unit: 3656

§ 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
